FOR morale at home and at the front, cotton bags are assuring adequate containers for transporting the flour that makes the bread, the grain that makes the eggs and poultry, the feed that makes the meat and milk and cheese.

Sugar or salt, potatoes or beans, there is a cotton bag on every staple food production line. Somewhere on the long road from the farmer's field to the dinner table or mess kit, cotton bags serve every soldier and every civilian, every day.
